Violence No Way! – Posters Released

Acting Assistant Commissioner Michael Hannigan from Far Northern Region has announced the release of Violence No Way! posters in the region.

The launch of the posters follows on from the community survey which has been taking place over the last two weeks. Currently those surveys are being returned to the Far Northern Regional office for collation and interpretation of the results.

Mr Hannigan said that he hoped this would be the next stage of the public awareness campaign which aims to reduce the incidence of violence in the far north.

“We are hoping that local businesses in the far north will display posters as a demonstration of their commitment to the aims of the campaign. Our message as a community is clear – you abuse, you lose,” he said.

Mr Hannigan said “for those community members that took the time to respond to the survey, I would like to extend my thanks for helping us deliver a better service in the far north.”

The posters can be viewed at the Violence No Way! Website at: <http://www.violencenoway.org/index.html>.

Businesses wishing to display the posters are encouraged to contact their District Crime Prevention Co-ordinators as follows:
